

KING ISLAND - EAST COAST

THE KING ISLAND RIVIERA

SEA-ELEPHANT RIVER

The southern section of the Lavinia State Reserve reaches the Sea Elephant River. Tranquility and beauty are the words most frequently associated with King Island's largest river but it is also a perfect location for viewing the abundance of birds making their temporary home here.

Visitor facilities include toilets, a picnic area and interpretative signage.

GETTING AWAY FROM IT ALL

WALK TO FRASER BLUFF

Park by the iconic jetty and walk south along the coast past Rocky Glen. The melaleuca lined track can get muddy in wet weather but 700 m south of the gate you will be rewarded with a stunning view along the undeveloped coast.

There are also two locally made "wave" seats along the route which are an ideal location for a contemplative and rejuvenating lunch.

EASY RETURN WALK IN 80 MINUTES

NARACOOPA JETTY

This 200 meter long jetty is beloved by locals and visitors alike. Built during the first world war the jetty was saved from demolition following a community campaign.

The most frequently caught fish is Tasmanian salmon but barracuda, flat head and squid are also hauled ashore...keep an eye out for seals though as they'll scare all the fish away.

LOCAL LANDMARK

BLOW HOLE BEACH

The Blow Hole is another popular spot enjoyed by locals for fishing and swimming. Blowhole Creek is accessed via Blowhole Road which runs off Sea Elephant Road. The beach is partly sheltered by Councillor Island Nature Reserve.

All beaches on King Island are unpatrolled so be mindful of conditions.

NOT ANOTHER BEAUTIFUL BEACH.

COOKING WITH THE BEST INGREDIENTS

The self-catering accommodation options in Naracoopa mean you can take home the best of King Island's ingredients and prepare yourself a perfect, bespoke meal.

If you're not a great chef you can't go wrong with one of King Island's famous steaks on the barbecue washed down with a glass of wine.

Nowhere is too far away on King Island with recommended dining establishments available in both Grassy & Currie: both 20 leisurely minutes away. If you prefer to stay at home however, make sure you stock up in Currie before 6.00 pm when the shops close.

In addition to everything you would expect from a supermarket, Foodworks provide a variety of hampers ranging from their Classic featuring cold meats, cooked chicken, cheese and fruit to the Deluxe BBQ Pack which can also include crayfish and even wine or bubbles.

Foodworks ask for at least 2 hours notice to prepare a hamper and 24 hours if crayfish is to be included.

IGA also provide an excellent range of local food and the butchers and bakery are just over the road.

Barbecue facilities and childrens play equipment are available on the foreshore in Naracoopa.
